Balmaceda Puts a Bloody
Cross on the Door

OF EVERY HOSTILE HOUSE,

And Lets His Soldiers Damage,

Insult and Kill at Their Pleasure.

A Nero Indeed.

(By the United Press.)

NEW YORK, June 22.—Many startling facts in connection with the revolution now raging in Chili, which throw light upon the ferocity and despotism of Balmaceda, are now given to the public for the first time through The United Press.

In Santiago where his headquarters are no one dares to utter a word against him. He has caused a cross of red to be painted on all the houses of people whom he suspects are not wholly in sympathy with him, and into these marked residences his police or soldiers go at any hour of the day or night. They ransack the rooms on the ground that they are looking for revolutionists who are supposed to be hidden there. The soldiers demand wine and food and after having as good a time as they wish, depart, only to repeat the offense in some other marked residence.

The people in these houses are forbidden to lock their doors. No one is allowed to ride on horseback through the streets after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. In Valparaiso a man's hands were hammered to a jelly because he said he would work them off for the revolutionists. Another man's hands were stuck over with pins and spikes.

MODEL TEACHERS

AND MODEL PATRONS.

They were the two Subjects Discussed by the Teachers Saturday.

DR. DIXON PREACHED SUNDAY.

The Girls Sail Out Over the Deep
Blue, and the Boys are in the Minority. That Won't Do.

(Staff Correspondence State Chronicle.)

MOREHEAD CITY, June 20.—This is a day of rest for the teachers. In the early morning, parties intent on strolling could be seen wending their way to the fleet of sharpies, which, with their great, flapping sails, seem endeavoring to beckon one on board. The day was beautiful, with a strong and steady breeze from the ocean all the time.

At night there was a meeting in the Assembly hall to discuss various subjects. The President appointed Messrs. Ellis, Harper and Parker a committee to look into the matter of certain parties selling tickets at reduced prices.

A MODEL TEACHER.

Prof. J. Y. Joyner discussed "A Model Teacher." He stated that his task was difficult because he was called on to describe something which he had never seen. A teacher should develop (1) the mind of the child and (2) the character of the child. The model teacher should have (1) good scholarship, (2) should be able to inspire. He must have a strong mind and good common sense.

Prof. D. L. Ellis: "Woman is the only creature that is sympathetic enough to be a model teacher. He must have the essence of tenderness developed in the highest degree, and no man has this."

Dr. R. H. Lewis: "God made nothing on this earth without a purpose. I think the model teacher will be found among those people who have found their work."

Prof. W. J. Ferrall: "It seems to me that the model teacher must have in him a large element of that which is not called gentleness. I have often heard it called 'old nick, nebo.' He must be able to subdue disorderly elements in the school room."

A MODEL PATRON.

Prof. E. E. Britton next spoke on "A Model Patron." He gave his idea of a model patron to be one that paid the teacher promptly, who would sometimes commend the teacher, and was ever ready to extend to him the hand of good cheer.

A MODEL SCHOOL COMMITTEEMAN.

Prof. E. P. Mangum: "A Model School Committeeman." He stated that one of the first duties of a model school committeeman was to help secure the proper patronage for the school.

Maj. E. G. Harrell: "A model patron is one who will visit your school and will occasionally invite you to visit his home. He ought to see that his child studies at home, and ought to see that his child attends school every possible day."

SOMETHING NEW ABOUT FRACTIONS.

Prof. James Dinwiddie: "Something new about fractions." "The ordinary definition of a fraction will not hold except in proper fractions, which form a very small part of the fraction used."

The Assembly then adjourned.

John Maloge, colored, Knocked
